Realty reacts to lockdown

Health, safety prime concerns

As India continues to be under lockdown to contain the spread of coronavirus, most businesses are also at standstill. Though conscious of the hit it is going to take in the coming days, the real estate industry has shown utmost maturity by endorsing the various measures announced by the Government. Realty & More presents the viewpoint of the industry in the early days of the 21-day lockdown.

“The sales are impacted, but it is temporary phenomenon. We will know the exact impact only when things calm down. In any case, the second half of March and April are generally not great from sales perspective. Also, at the moment it is more important that people remain safe and healthy and that remains our prime concern as of now.”
